American Physical Therapy Association – Position Statement

FAMILY VIOLENCE BOD P03-05-10-27 [Position]

Family violence can be defined as the intentional intimidation or abuse of children, adults, or elders by a family member, spouse/partner, or caretaker to gain power and control over the victim. Abuse has many forms, including physical and sexual assault, emotional or psychological mistreatment, threats and intimidation, economic abuse and violation of individual rights. It is imperative that physical therapists and physical therapists assistants be aware of the prevalence of violence in all sectors of society and be alert for its effects in their encounters with virtually every patient. Family violence crosses all socioeconomic lines and can affect anyone regardless of race, age, culture, or sexual orientation. Physical therapists and physical therapists assistants are in an ideal position to provide intervention through routine screening and the identification of abuse, can serve as sympathetic listeners, and be a central referral source for other resources in the community.

In addition, APTA supports ongoing education programs for members on screening, recognition, and treatment of violence; developing university-, hospital-, or office-based protocols and policies about family violence; publicizing the hotline numbers for organizations that help practitioners and patients deal with abuse; participating in public policy initiatives and legislative reform to protect victims; and partnering with other organizations committed to decreasing family violence.
