.0803 SCOPE OF SP-SFD LICENSE

(a) The following definitions apply in determination of the scope of work available to the holder of a SP-SFD license:

- 1) "Ancillary" with reference to the scope of a single-family residential dwelling is an appurtenance or an outbuilding or similar structure associated with the single-family dwelling such as a detached residential garage or carport, a farm or household equipment storage shed, a barn, a pump house, an electric fence, or yard lighting.
- 2) "Habitation" means the occupancy of dwelling primarily or exclusively for residential purposes and includes the incidental use of the dwelling or its ancillaries for a business, commercial, or professional activity, such as providing hair dressing, medical, legal, consulting, or tax services, if:
 - A) the activity is incidental to the primary use of the dwelling as a residence;
 - B) no stock-in-trade is either displayed or sold on the premises; and
 - C) the full-time or part-time services of no more than one person who does not live at the dwelling are used in the activity.
- 3) A "single family residential dwelling" is a building or a manufactured home that is designed and used only for habitation by one family and is not physically attached to any other building or structure. Cabanas, porches, room additions, and ancillary structures are considered part of a single-family dwelling if they are designed for and used only for residential purposes by the occupants of the dwelling.

(b) A special restricted single family residential dwelling electrical contracting license (SP-SFD) authorizes the licensee to install, maintain, or repair only electrical wiring and devices that are in or on a single-family residential dwelling or are ancillary to a single-family residential dwelling. Electrical work within the scope of another special restricted license can be performed by a SP-SFD licensee without obtaining the other special restricted license as long as it is in or on a single-family residential dwelling or is ancillary to a single-family residential dwelling.

- 3. The foregoing agreement was adopted by the South Carolina Residential Builders Commission during a duly scheduled meeting held May 12, 2021 and was adopted by the North Carolina State Board of Examiners of Electrical Contractors during a duly scheduled meeting held June 17th, 2021.
- 4. The provisions of this reciprocal licensing agreement shall become effective June 17th, 2021, or soon thereafter, and shall remain in effect until such time as either the South Carolina Residential Builders Commission or the North Carolina State Board of Examiners of Electrical Contractors advises the other state agency through written notice of its intention to terminate the same. Such written notice must be filed with the other state agency at least ninety days prior to the date the respective state agency intends to terminate this agreement.
